W'stock will hear clergy of a variety of faiths

Woodstock selectmen last Wednesday came up with what they hope is a solution to concerns regarding the prayer that traditionally starts each annual town

At the Feb. 7 board meeting, a group of citizens appealed to selectmen to alter the practice of a Christian prayer, delivered by a Baptist clergyman and invoking Jesus Christ, in order to be more sensitive to residents of other religious backgrounds and

One suggestion was to simply change to a moment of silence. Another was to rotate each year among clergy of different faiths.

At Wednesday's board workshop, Town Manager Vern Maxfield said that he opposed a moment of silence.

'I'd rather have nothing, rather than a moment of silence," he said. "To me, that's for someone who died."

He said that earlier that day he had heard from a half dozen people who objected to a change. Two people also told him the issue should be taken to the voters.

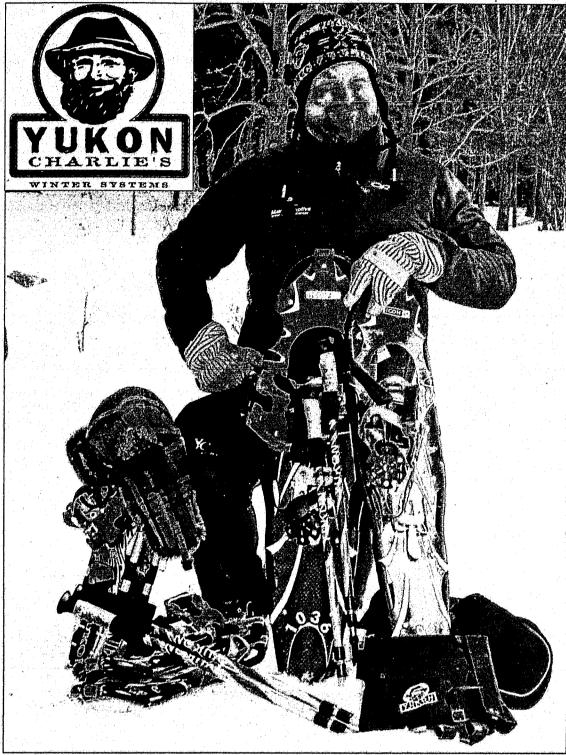

But, said Maxfield, "I think that's a very bad idea, because it would be very divisive."

Deegan supported rotating clergy. The question to consider, he said, is "What is fair, and do we want to assure everyone feels comfortable? I think they bring a valid point, and we can't not address this. It's here now, and it's on the table. We're a melting pot more than we used to

Personally, he said, "I believe in prayer, whether it's my kind of prayer or not." Steve Bies said he had in Gabe Perkins' family has a history of playing the role of, or looking like, someone else. His grandparents, Ernest and Betty Perkins, regularly played Dr. and Mrs. Moses Mason for the Bethel Historical Society.

And 20 years ago, his great uncle won a Homer Simpson look-alike contest.

Bourque found the contest online. It called for people to enter a "Yukon Charlie" look-alike competition.

Yukon Charlie's Winter Systems sells outdoor gear, primarily snowshoes. The company logo features a mountain-man type character with a beard.

The winner would receive $500 worth of snowshoe equipment. And the person who recommended the eventual winner would get a free pair of snowshoes.

"Carol said she needed new snowshoes," said Perkins.

Portion of Greenwood TIF would be targeted at Locke Mills' blight

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Greenwood needs to identify a little more "blight" in Locke Mills, if it wants to qualify for tax increment financing (TIF) tied to future improvements and development at Mt.

Abram. If it does qualify, then part of the money made available as a result of the TIF would be put toward infrastructure and other initiatives aimed at eliminating that blight.

Another portion of the TIF would go to offset the increased property taxes Mt. Abram would pay for the improvements which make the TIF possible.

Town Manager Kim Sparks said infrastructure efforts in blighted areas might include road improvements, economic signage, a marketing campaign or website for Greenwood businesses, even the establishment of a town Planning and Development Depart-

Sparks told the town Budget Committee last week that. "Smitty, who is the state TIF lady working in our district,' said the town's initial draft of a TIF proposal included toc much residential property but not enough commercial, and it lacked sufficient "stuff that is blighted."

Budget Committee member Loretta Mikols thought the blight was self evident.

"Isn't that downtown Locke Mills?" Mikols said. "And isn't that Howe Hill all the way up? Has she driven Howe Hill?"

"I'm very concerned with what's happening to Locke Mills," Mikols said later "Look at the village - every See TIF, Page 4

Woodstock selectmen propose $100K for repairs to aging dam

Woodstock selectmen decided last week to recommend that voters at next month's town meeting allocate $100,000, from increased tax revenues, toward fixing the leaking dam on Lake Christo-

But that amount, said se-lectman Chair Rick Young, is likely less than half of the total that will be needed.

extra tax revenue, to be paid by the new Spruce Mountain LLC wind project.

Of that total, $200,000 will go to reduce the mil rate, if voters approve. Another $60,000 would go to roadwork.

The board had asked for suggestions from townspeople for spending the funds. At a budget workshop last week, they said they had heard from three or four people.

Reducing the mil rate was a priority for selectmen.

OTHERS ALSO HAVE RIGHTS

To the Editor:

Michele Bouchard's letter (Citizen, Feb. 9) is thoughtful and well expressed; however, it only states one side of the noise issue. Certainly those in the forestry industry have a need and right to work. They contribute to an important part of Maine's, economy. But other citizens have rights and needs as well,

Most of us have risen early to get to work, but few of us have awakened every neighbor within earshot in the process and kept them awake for hours, for months at a time. Think of the nurse who works four ten hour days a week. She drives an hour to her job treating cancer patients, is on her feet all day, returns home in the evening, has supper and goes to bed. Her demanding work requires a good night's sleep. But at 4:30 the roaring of heavy equipment awakens her. She arrives at the hospital groggy and sleep deprived. She has rights and needs,

Surely, reasonable people can find a way to respect the needs and rights of both loggers and ordinary citizens.

By the way, this week an unidentified "logger" left a hostile and threatening message on our phone. It is sad to think that in a wonderful town like Greenwood, citizens cannot use democratic processes to raise issues for public discussion without being harassed and intimidated.

Pat and Henry Stewart Greenwood

INCLUDING A RIGHT TO SLEEP

In response to Michele Bouchard's letter opposing the right of Greenwood residents to pass a noise ordinance because of logging operations, I support the residents. I do not believe it is, as she states, "Greenwood cares more about preserving 'vacationland' than it does the livelihood of its people." Those residents pay taxes that sustain their town just as woodlot owners do. I am responding as a granddaughter whose grandfather logged from age 14 in Aroostook County.

For the past two winters my neighbors and I have listened to the "hum" of logging. I have also listened to the roar of logging and chipping trucks running night and day. It has been a common practice on our small town road in Newry, to have trucks up and down road throughout the night, not just the crack of dawn. They drive within 50 feet of my home. I believe I too have a right a right to have a night of uninterrupted sleep and a road without ruts. She mentions local economy yet the logging company on our road is from Denmark, not Newry, Bethel, Hanover, nor Upton. Harvesting practices were mentioned yet I see the mountainsides in the area being stripped bare of hardwoods and softwoods. Wood chips are being removed and not allowed to add nutrients to the soil, nor do not see replanting for the families who rely on "sustainable" forests for the future and little or no oversight. Look at Route 26 and East B Hill Road to see those "sustainable" practices (so much for our "scenic byway"!).

One group of people should not be protected without some sort of regulation and oversight. Part of this whole equation should be truck weights on closed roads, unsafe driving practices, noise at all hours of day and night and "sustainable" forests for the future.

PRAYER NOT 'ONE SIZE FITS ALL'

To the Editor:

Two of us, one an atheist, the other a Christian minister, offer cour mutual support to the effort in Woodstock (Citizen, Feb. 9) to broaden the understanding of prayer at civic meetings and

.We think Peter Gartner and others are to be commended for aising this issue, and for opening an important window with the Woodstock Selectmen. In our pluralistic society, prayer is never a "one size fits all" prescription.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT FORUM HERE FEB. 27

To the Editor:

In late February and March, economic development entities in western Maine in conjunction with the Western Mountains Alliance will host a regional public forum series exploring land use and the impacts of new LURC legislation in western Maine's unorganized territories. Forums will feature a broad range of presenters including residential and woodlot property owners, policy experts and tourism interests.

Forums are scheduled for Feb. 27 in Bethel, Feb. 28 in The Forks, and March 1 in Carrabassett Valley. A fourth forum in Piscataquis County is yet to be scheduled.

In 2011, the LURC Reform Commission charged with making recommendations to improve the Land Use Regulation Commission released its suggestions. A small state agency with oversight for over 10 million acres in Maine's unorganized territories, LURC is responsible for permitting projects such as new home development, as well as resort and large-scale wind projects. Legislation introduced this session to improve how the agency operates includes changing its name to the Land Use Planning Commission; increasing representation of county commissioners on its board; and allowing counties that meet certain requirements to provide their own oversight for land use planning and permitting in their unorganized territories. The public is invited to explore what these changes may mean for land use and regulation in western Maine's unorganized territories. The public forum series is supported by the Emanuel and Pauline A. Lerner Foundation in partnership with the Western Mountains Alliance, Somerset Economic Development Corporation, Piscataquis County Economic Development Council, Greater Franklin Economic Development Corporation, the Western Maine Economic Development Council and the Western Maine Legislative Caucus.

The First Years: Do You See Many Wild Animals, Many Birds?

The whippoorwills are our most dependable birds. At nine p.m. they start calling at the edge of the south woods, come nearer and nearer the house. If we come inside, they come to the porch and for ten minutes whack their bills against a certain chair that they like. One can really see that the call is not a song at all but the bill in action.

They move away to the pumphouse steps and then disappear into the north woods. I had never seen one until I came here and was disappointed in the ungainly appearance. How I enjoy the call and do not watch them unless company is here. Then we tiptoe into the dining room for an or-

Our spirits soared at our glimpses of our glamour birds, a few special days each year. The goldfinches glitter about when the asparagus goes to seed in late July; in the open woods they eat seeds of half-blown purple thistles. The bluebirds are here once in early summer, disappear, come back for a few days in autumn to swish about on the swinging woodbine. A few times the indigo bunting, bluer than the sky, will sing from the top of the horizon fir tree. The scarlet tanagers stay in the woods, but come out to display themselves in the crab apple tree in late May, open to whiteness. Once they sat on the scarecrow in the garden. If we miss them early in the season, once during the summer one will fly across the road in front of the truck, a messenger maybe of faith.

Partridges are everywhere; one is always flying out from under the horses' feet when we are riding, usually ignored except by Duchess who pretends fear. I need a deep seat for her sidewise leap. The infant mortality rate is high. B.B. often stops the truck while an anxious mother gets her brood of six or seven across the road. By August only three will be left. We never see her but can hear her call. The little ones cross one at a time. Not until one is safely out of sight (probably under her wing) will she signal for another to come.

Walking home from the mailbox of a June day and snatching glimpses of newspaper headlines, I am frightened by a great hiss and whirl at my heels. I jump and run, heart beating wildly. After a short distance, my mind clears. I am not torn limb from limb, so slacken my pace and look back. Coming behind me is a partridge with wings spread wide, and neck feathers standing out like an Elizabethan ruff. I have probably walked over her young in the road without seeing them. I walk on briskly to calm the mother, realizing that the proper name "ruffed grouse" is physically and temperamentally apt.

Hawks impress me with their graceful glides. They seemed the epitome of power until one day, on the south side of Whitecap on a blueberry jaunt, I watched a pair of eagles whirl and dip and dance in the sky to the music of mewing cries. One could fear an eagle, but one is bewitched by wild geese. I have never lost the sense of wonder and mystery about the universe instilled in me when a child by my white-haired grandmother who was never too busy to call us all outside whenever a flock went over. Only once in suburban living did I see the spring flight. It was on an April morning at Lid Beach. I was standing stiffly at attention on the drill field with ten thousand sailors and nineteen other Waves. I heard the cry, looked up, saw a great V going north, "Look, Wild Geese," I pointed, then came back to attention facing the inspecting officer.

"Are you a country girl, sailor?" he said.

"Yes, sir," trembled I.

He passed on. For several days I expected minutely to be called to a captain's mast. Nothing happened.

The largest flock that I ever saw was on a flaming October day on Swan Hill. For three springs while riding by this abandoned farm site we had seen daffodils blooming in the grass. Each fall we stopped to dig up a few bulbs (the owner had given permission) but could never find them. This year in spring Pat had dismounted and put a few sticks in as markers.

B.B. drove us up in the four-wheel drive and we walked blithely to what we thought was the spot. No markers were to be found, nothing but a tangle of wild cherry bushes, goldenrod, aster, toughstemmed grasses. We poked about while B.B. stood with the spade insisting that no flowers could ever survive in that jungle. We were almost ready to admit defeat when we heard the honking of wild geese. Soon they came into sight, not the usual even V but with one side much shorter than the other. They broke up and scattered all over, two scouts or leaders emerged; quickly a perfect V was formed.

We stood enchanted amid the jeweled growth and watched them out of sight. As we looked reluctantly back to earth, we spied the markers. B.B. dug the bulbs; we came home and planted them by moonlight along the pasture fence. When we move away from Celladore, I shall leave all the garden shrubs and plants for the new owner except for these charmed bulbs.

The geese have resting places nearby. Sometimes hundreds of them stay for a week. People go to see them but I have no wish to see them grounded. Rather, I listen for them spring and fall. If they are flying high, the plaintive sounds get louder, then drift away, you do not see them. When they do come into sight, I stand entranced until they disappear. Watching them winging their way north or south is a magical experience. I listen and think maybe this was the kind of siren song that lured the first fish to emerge from the primeval ooze and start the long journey to becoming man. I understand why Columbus could sail on and on, why the Curies persisted until radium was found. I fly with them to the land at the back of the north wind. Anything is believable for the short time before the geese disappear. One can still hear the call after they drift out of sight. I listen until the last faint tone is gone. With it goes hope for the return of a lost love; reluctantly I Beginning next week: 'How Do You Get Water?' come back to the here and now.

TREE OF PEACE AND LOVE

To the Editor:

The North Waterford and East Stoneham Congregational churches would like to thank everyone in the community who participated in the first annual Tree of Peace and Love during the Christmas season.

As people "bought" a white light bulb in honor or in mem-. ory of a loved one, or to express a prayerful thought, the colored lights on the evergreen trees in front of the two churches turned bit by bit to white. The names and thoughts, including the names of local servicemen and women, were written on paper cranes, which are sym-!bols of peace, and hung on the trees as well. The money raised by the project will be used to help local people who are in need. We were all surprised by the outpouring of support from the community, and we look forward to next year's trees.

CONSIDER THE CANDIDATES

Salt's.

The Republican Party is now in the process of striving to select their candidate for the Presidency of the United States. Void of an intercession of divine intervention it seems as if the options are likely to be either Newt Gingrich or Mitt Romney. Regardless of which one becomes the Republicans nominee for the presidency, either one will have some dubious credentials to present for consideration by the collective electorate of this country.

As a campaign challenge, Mitt Romney was recently coerced into the embarrassing position of reluctantly revealing a partial indication of the obscene magnitude of his personal wealth. Mitt is not only in the top monetary one percent he is in the top one percent of the top one percent. Whether Republi-'can, Democrat, Independent, or any other political persuasion, those that are below the status of the top one percent, might be well served to consider reality.

The economic wrecking ball, of vulture capitalistic impropriety, that was so deftly wielded by the most recent Republican administration swung in two directions. One way it demolished the economic status of the working and middle class, on the back swing it served only to deposit the value of that which had been demolished on front swing into the incessantly expanding coffers of the top money hungry one percent.

This is evidenced by the fact, that the ravages of the present day economic dilemma are visited solely on all those below the top one percent while the coveted status of the top one percent is left completely unaffected.

Mitt Romney's proclamation that if he becomes the President of the United States, he would run the whole country the same way he ran his business ventures should strike absolute terror into the heart of everyone, including the top monetary one percent. Such intense radicalization would serve only to incite a humanitarian catastrophe of incomprehensible consequence.

As far as Newt Gingrich is concerned, I would find it difficult to lend much credence to a millionaire candidate for the presidency of the United States, who in a nationally televised debate would seem to suggest that taking enough food stamps away from the needy to pay for a permanent space station on the moon would be a feasible endeavor.

TMS receives donation for books

BETHEL- The SAD 44 School Board Monday accepted gifts of $150 and $1,027, respectively, from the Bethel Rotary Club and the Jolly Drayman at Briar Lea Inn, to be used toward the Telstar Middle School literacy project. The funds will be used to purchase copies of the book, "A Wilderness Ranger's Journal – Rendezvous at Devil's Elbow," by Tim Caverly. Caverly will provide an interactive presentation with music and scenic and historic photos, to several classes, according to a letter provided by Joe Arizzi of the Rotary Club. Caverly will also direct a writing workshop for interested students. Caverly served as supervisor of The Allagash Wilderness Waterway for 18 years. He has written several children's books.

SAD 44 supervisory jobs combined

BETHEL—SAD 44 Transportation Supervisor Ron Deegan was approved Monday by the School Board for the combined position of transportation and maintenance supervisor, according to Supt. Dave Murphy. Deegan replaces Burnie Rice in maintenance, who retired in December. Deegan's salary of $42,806 will see an increase of $15,000 for the new position, prorated for the remainder of the school year. His salary next year will be $58,555. In other business Monday, the board learned that the state is currently estimating a $25,000 increase in state aid to SAD 44 for next school year. The figure, however, is preliminary. This year the district received $831,457 in aid.

Motorcycle registration changes

AUGUSTA—Secretary of State Charlie Summers reminds ·Maine's motorcycle owners of the changes that were made to registration and inspection stickers. Last session, the legislature passed LD 221, "An Act to Make Changes to the Motorcycle Inspection Program." LD 221 changed the law to require the motorcycle inspection sticker to be displayed on the vehicle's registration plate. The new requirement starts in March, and will be phased in over the next year. The inspection sticker will be placed in the plate's upper left corner. In order to accommodate the inspection sticker, all motorcycle registrations (except those classes not required to be inspected) will be changed to a fixed March expiration. Starting in April 2012, when a motorcycle is registered or renewed, the expiration date will be changed to expire in the next March. The registrant will be issued a combined month/year sticker, which should be placed in the upper right corner. In order to transition into a mandatory March expiration, registration fees and excise taxes will be prorated for the correct number of months. The standard annual motorcycle registration fee is $21. In the future, when an owner registers a newly acquired motorcycle, the registration fee and excise tax will be prorated to reflect a March expiration. However, fees for delayed renewal will be calculated in accordance with existing state law, and generally full fees will be charged. To facilitate fee calculation and to ease the municipal clerks' workloads, the Bureau of Motor Vehicles encourages motorcycle registrants to use the online service Rapid Renewal to renew whenever possible. Approximately three-quarters of all Maine registrants live in towns participating in Rapid Renewal. https://www1. maine.gov/online/bmv/rapid-renewal/.

the danger posed by chronic misuse of the breakdown lanes on either side of the "Cars and trucks pass in the breakdown lane, creating a very serious potential for someone walking or biking to be killed," Milliard wrote.

He urged the selectmen to be proactive now rather than wait for someone to be killed.

Seabury Lyon described the situation as "a tragedy waiting to happen, and it can be avoided by moderating speed and strict enforcement."

Donald G. Bennett noted that the road serves as part of the main route between Brattleboro, Vt. and Bangor, and "is also the main route for trucks hauling chips to paper mills sometimes as many as 12 an hour. Bethel needs to protect its drivers who use this route to shop in Bethel."

The selectmen offered no arguments, and added their own observations.

Chairman Stan Howe cited the abbreviated passing lane going up the hill just west of the Sunday River Road.

"That's a very dangerous situation there," Howe said. "Somebody tries to pass you there, and it narrows up, and somebody has to play chicken

Selectman Don Bennett said,

"I'm a regular traveler to the North Road, as many other people here are, on a very frequent nature, and as you go over the bridge and get ready to go on to the North Road, you have trucks, cars and everything coming at you from both directions. "They think they should be going 50 on a 35 mile-per-hour road."

But, he cautioned the audience: "In my tenure on the board I think we've been through this at least twice that I remember, and each time we end up with a DOT guy sitting out there and tell-. ing us that to do this is actually going to cause more problems rather than less."

Howe also pointed to the town's inability to convince MDOT to install a traffic light at the Rite Aid intersection, an intersection MDOT classifies as "high crash," and one where collisions have taken the lives of two Bethel wom-

In a separate accident there, a Bethel Police Department cruiser was totaled.

"That's one of the worst places in town," Howe said, "and we've got to do something about that, too." Enforcement

In the written comments regarding the petition and at Monday's meeting, there were complaints about an apparent lack of enforcement on Route 2 of the existing speed limits and of other traffic laws.

"Even if we do lower the speed, enforcement is the other part of it," Howe said.

Asked by The Citizen about enforcement, Oxford County Sheriff Wayne Gallant offered the following information: "From January 1, 2011 to December 31, 2011 the Oxford County Sheriff's Office generated 241 traffic violations resulting in 193 summonses on Route 2 in the Town of Bethel. We also logged another 55 violations resulting in 51 written warnings in the same

"An added note is that the majority of our operating under the influence (OUI) arrests in the Town of Bethel are on Route 2. In 2011 we arrested 34 individuals for OUI as well."

The board voted unanimously Monday to have Town Manager Jim Doar contact MDOT to push the argument for lower speed limits.

Doar said Tuesday he was drafting a letter asking MDOT to conduct a traffic survey. and he plans to make the case that there is now more traffic and businesses along that stretch of Route 2.

He added that while he didn't think all townspeople would be happy with the plan, "I think you've done the right job for the town, and I appreciate it."

Dam

But they also felt an urgency to put the dam-repair project on a faster track.

The dam has been leaking for 20 years, Town Manager Vern Maxfield said.

Lake Christopher is the source for the Little Androscoggin River, which flows down through South Paris and Norway.

"If the dam goes out, and all those places along the shorefront — 100 feet is $200,000 in valuation — and you're paying taxes on that, what are you going to tell the taxpayers when they're looking at a mudflat?" asked Young.

Added Ron Deegan, "Not only that, can you imagine all the water downstream in Norway?" Young said the dam could be a liability issue for Wood-

To date, the town has raised

$15,000 for dam work. Said Young, "I would consider us lucky if we get it done for under $200,000."

He said requirements of the Maine Department of Environmental Protection would push the cost very high.

Selectmen were skeptical that the ordinance could be enforced.

"I think it's a safety issue," said Deegan. "I believe it does help them save their brakes, but also save people's lives, slowing down. I think we ought to have signs, but I don't think we need an ordinance. There's a legitimate noise concern, but safety outweighs that for me. I don't want the truckers to have to second guess."

The board eventually decided to recommend the proposal without the penalty portion, hoping for voluntary compliance with the signs that would go up. (Kendrick later agreed to dropping the penalty, Maxfield said.)

Young suggested the board might also pursue a reduction in the speed limit leading into town, to perhaps slow the trucks down before they would need to use the jake brakes.

For six weeks Perkins Facebooked and Tweeted friends and acquaintances to vote for him.

The annual Great Backyard Bird Count takes place Feb. 17-20. The bird count helps define bird ranges, migration pathways. populations, and habitat needs for almost 600 species of birds in the United States and Canada. Anyone can participate in the bird count simply by watching and counting birds for at least fifteen minutes on any day of the count. You don't need to register to participate and your results can be submitted online. Last year more than 92,000 bird checklists were submitted with 11.4 million birds observed. In Maine bird watchers submitted 861 checklists with 99 species observed. For information about the Great Backyard Bird Count, go to www.birdcount. org or call Wild Birds Unlimited Nature Shop in South Portland at 771-2473.

The 2012 American Cancer Society Daffodil Days Campaign begins this week. Because of the current economic crisis, the society needs our donations more than ever, Contributions raised through the sale of daffodils enable the society to offer free programs and services that help people fight cancer by providing day-to-day help, emotional support, and 24-hour information to help ease the cancer experience. Daffodil contributions also provide money for research and education about early cancer detection. Daffodil Days offers a variety of daffodils. For $10, donors receive a bouquet of 10 fresh blossoms. For $15, donors receive three-mini daffodil bulbs in a soil-filled pot. For a $25 contribution, you can choose from three items: a bouquet of 10 daffodils and a Boyd's collectible bear; the Gift of Hope, which is a bouquet of daffodils delivered to a person receiving treatment; or Bear Hugs for Hope, which is a Special Edition bear delivered to a child who has been affected by cancer. If you have questions or want to pre-order any item, call 824-3226. Pre-orders must be called in by March 2. Bethel WinterFest 2012 is only a week away. Come to Festival Plaza and watch the progress on the snow volcano and the sliding hill. Snow guns are in action and the snow is slowly piling up. A full calendar of WinterFest events is listed on the Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce website at www.bethelmaine.com. Another fun winter event in the area:

On Sunday, Feb. 19, at 6 p.m. there will be a Torchlight Parade down the Boris trail at Mt. Abram. The parade will be followed by an all-you-caneat spaghetti dinner. The suggested donation is $5 per person or $20 per family. Potluck desserts are welcome.

Mark this date on your calendar. Sunday, March 18, from 7:30 to 11 a.m, the Rotary Club of Bethel hosts its Spring All-You-Can-Eat Country Breakfast Buffet at Ordway Dining Hall at Gould Academy on Church Street.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $3 for children 12 or younger. Advance tickets are $7 and can be purchased from club members or at these locations: River View Resort, Rostay Inn, and Mt. Mann Jewelers. Proceeds benefit the club's community projects and scholarships.

It seems that there isn't much happening at this time in the neighborhood. Hopefully next week I will have more news to share as I had expected an e-mail which hasn't come in yet.

Last Friday Crescent Park School had a Valentine's Dance for the kids. My grandson, Boden, came home all excited as he was crowned the King of the Dance. Here is the answer to the Trivia. I think you will eniov it best in its entirety and I quote: "Deacon Joseph Holt on Swan's Hill had an underpass built to connect two pastures, that his animals might rove freely from one side of the road to the other. When' the job was nearly done he stood one day, watching from the sidelines. "That hole's too narrow," he declared. "My cows can't get through." "Can't get through," cried the mason, who was also the deacon's neighbor. "I'll bet I can drive my oxen through that gap!" "I'll bet you five dollars you can't," piped the deacon. And there the matter rested until the last sod was in place. Then the stone-mason hitched up his clever oxen facing opposite ways in the yoke. Thus proceeding, one advancing and one backing, they easily went under the pass. The deacon paid the five dollars." As usual I will ask you to call me at 824-3220 or e-mail han@ megalink.net with news, questions and information. I hope everyone had a nice Valentine's Day and would love to hear about it.

Have a great week.

Lise McLain attended the Senior Citizen's dinner in Bethel last Wednesday and donated a handmade blue and white porcelain necklace as a fundraiser for the club. She visited her father, Gerard Dupont, at Ledgeview last Sunday, Hugh and I made a trip to the hospital in Norway last week so he could do some routine blood work. I made the comment as we were walking past the cafeteria that we usually run into somebody that we know. Sure enough, Ernest and Alberta Angevine were having lunch after an appointment. While we were talking to them, Donnie Katlin came in, so we had a chance to find out that he is doing quite well. After a short visit with them we went to the lab and saw Beverly Bennett and her granddaughter. Amanda Johnson. We thought that we certainly had seen about as many Gilead/Bethel area people as usual, but we were wrong. We decided to stop at Market Square Restaurant and as we were getting ready to leave, Leslie Moore and Lisa Farrar Fox came in. I warned all of them that I would be including them in my column.

We were discussing the 'I Grew Up in Bethel' Facebook page with Leslie and Lisa. They have checked it out. Last I looked, there were 259 members and big fans of the page. There are a lot of great pictures and stories from all birds and a few Blue Jays that sorts of people that still live in Bethel and those that have moved away.

We went to Bridgton Friday night to pick up our grandchildren, William and Annie. They waited at our house for their dad to come and pick them up to spend the weekend with him. They were excited about Valentine's Day at school. Annie was having a party and had been writing out cards.

ready by 5 p.m. The Ladies will serve breakfast Sunday 8 to 11 a.m. They have their meetings every Friday, 10 a.m. in Leslie's home.

Carol and Charlie are having a sliding party at their home Friday, Feb. 17, starting at 4:30 p.m. (In last week's column I incorrectly wrote that it would be Saturday evening, Feb. 18. I apologize for my mistake.) They will serve hotdogs, chili and other foods.

The M.S.A. magazine requires all club news be submitted by the 15th of the month prior to publication. This is approximately a three-week time span. The Bethel Citizen requests that they have news items no later than 4:30 p.m. on Mondays for the Thursday paper of the same week. I wonder why there is such a difference in the time required.

I have managed, by one means or another, to put most of my snowplowing equipment out of commission. I hope I can get something operating before "the big one" hits us.

Neil and I rode 80 miles or so Saturday. The Upton trails and the trails we rode in New Hampshire were all well groomed and great riding. Thank-you to all you hardworking people who groom and maintain the trails. You are appreciated.

It is three degrees below zero here and the wind is howling as I am writing this at 6 p.m. Sunday. I think it's going to be chilly by morning.

Our condolences to Leslie Aron, Wayne Svendberg, and all members of Wayne Svendberg elder's family.

Locke's Mills

Has felt like March with the warmth and sun recently. That inevitable sign of spring, potholes, making an early entrance as well.

Another sign of spring is the annual budget meetings at the town office. The Greenwood Selectmen and the Budget Committee met this past week for the first go-round on the budget. Budget Committee members are Brian Dunham, Fran Picarillo, Loretta Mikols, Larry Merlino, and Bill Bickford.

At this point, a number of large items do not as yet have budget numbers. That will come with future meetings. A key focus of this first meeting was the 30 percent increase in the Greenwood Fire Department budget. The initial budget proposal went from the current $64,050 to a requested $83,510. Most of this increase was due to wages and equipment. Fire Chief Al Curtis Jr. was asked to review these numbers again for the next meeting on March 1 with the intent of lowering the requested budget.

The Town of Greenwood still maintains two fire stations with trucks. One is the main station in Locke's Mills and the other is the satellite station in Greenwood City. This is a significant taxpayer expense in part because the City station has to be heated. Over the past five years, the Locke's station has used 5,379 gallons of heating oil. The City station has burned 3,770 gallons. You can do the math to see how much it costs us taxpayers to support two stations. The possibility of having only one fire station has been visited a few times, but voters have opted to keep both open. The good news so far on the budget is that the Highway Department budget is down mainly because we don't have to huy a new plow truck again The transfer station budget is also down for two reasons: there is no station manager (Greenwood and Woodstock town managers are overseeing it for the short-term); and there is less trash due to the economic downturn.

Call or stop by for pricing.

The Town Office relocation appears to be getting more consideration. Town Manager Kim Sparks said she has been asked to get numbers on how much it would cost to tear down the school house and build again plus look at building on a different lot. Always good to look at all options and then make a decision. Sympathies go out to the families of Frank Lowell and Norm Putnam. While they were not from Locke's Mills, both were very involved in the communities around here. Frank ran Western Maine Supply (as his sons continue to do) and Norm was code enforcement officer for several area towns.

If you grew up around here, there is a fun new page on Facebook called, "I Grew Up in Bethel ME." It was started by old Bethelite Norma Sloan a couple weeks ago and has well over 200 members already. It is fun to see childhood pictures of old classmates and see the names of folks you have not heard of since grade school or high school. Great pics from childhood. You'll see Brown's Variety, the Community Room, Crescent Park classmates and more. Check it out on Facebook by typing the name of the page in the Facebook search box.

There will be a potluck supper at the Locke's Mills Union Church on Route 26 Wednesday, Feb. 22, followed by a worship service to mark the beginning of Lent. Everyone is welcome.

And, last but not least, if you are looking for some community involvement, the Town of Greenwood needs two alternate members for the Planning Board as well as two alternate members for the Appeals Board. If you are a Greenwood resident and are interested, please contact Town Manager Kim Sparks at 875-2773.

Anyone traveling around should be careful of some driveways and back roads that are covered with glare ice from recent warm daytime temperatures and cold nights. We assisted the owner of a vehicle that had slid into a snowbank and quickly pulled it back on to the road. A cold snap blew in last weekend with thermometers reaching the minus zero degree range. couple ago weeks Mona and I were killing a little time at the Maine Mall while waiting Katrina's airplane to arrive. We decided to walk the corridors until time to go to the airport. We were passing a kiosk where a young fellow was selling skin creams and "stuff." He handed a small sample of skin cream to Mona and another to me. As I started to walk on by, he took me by the arm and said, "Show Residents of Hanover and me your worst looking fingernail." I said, "Okay," and stuck out the index finger of my left hand, which had an ugly dark blood blister under the nail! The fellow said, "No! I can't use that one. Give me one of your thumb nails." He then proceeded to demonstrate how he could use a special abrasive pad and shine my thumb nail without using any polish. (I bought a kit for Mona.)

I've been logging down neặr the bank of Pleasant River the past couple weeks, or so. In the process I've created a pretty good woods road with most of the holes and bumps covered in hard-packed snow. A few days ago, Matt Ludden rode his snowmobile down my road and across the river. Trouble was, the river ice started breaking away as he drove across, leaving open water! (The water is only about a foot deep there.) I see that he made the return trip just downstream from the hole he made going across, The same thing happened as he came back across, but he again made it without getting wet. This afternoon, I walked down to the riverbank and saw snowmobile tracks to the edge of the riverbank. This time, I saw where he had turned around and returned up my woods road without crossing the river!

More Wild Weasel: About the second class day during a break, we were milling around getting acquainted, when a tall, rather lanky fighter pilot introduced himself. "Hi. I'm Sam Adams, and I was wondering if you have crewed up yet?" "No. I don't really know any pilots yet;" "Well, I've been flying Thuds for 4 or 5 years now, and I've been an instructor pilot for a couple years. I've flown'3 combat missions in Vietnam when I was TDY at Kadena AFB." (Okinawa). "I'm Rich Grover, and I've been a B-52 EWO for over 6 years. I was shipped down here from Castle AFB, California." "You wanna crew up with me?" "Sure. Why not?" That's about how we got "mated." After that, we were given some time to head out to the flightline to get acquainted with the F-105F. Sam said, 'The F-105 is the largest single-engine fighter aircraft the Air Force ever built. It's almost 65 feet long, just under 20 feet tall (tail), and has a wingspan of almost 35 feet. It's empty weight is just under 28,000 pounds and has a maximum takeoff weight a little over 50,000 pounds. It can carry a bomb load heavier than a B-17 bomber in WWII! The 105 was designed as a tactical fighter bomber and was built to carry, a nuclear weapon in an internal bomb bay. We used to sit nuclear alert at Bitburg Air Force Base, Germany. Our mission was to blast holes through the surface to air missile barriers so you guys in heavy bombers could get through Eastern Europe and bomb Soviet Russia! The Thud has a radar navigation and bombing radar so it can complete its mission under any weather conditions, day or night."

We walked around the air-

This is the bomb bay fuel Tank that we use when we're carrying "iron bombs." (conwentional high explosive) That gives the aircraft quite à bit more range. There are two weapons attachment points under each wing and a larger one that attaches to the outside of the bomb doors. Usually we carry a missile or single bomb on the butboard wing stations and å 450 gallon droppable fueltank on each of the inboard stations. Then we carry bombs on the bomb bay door (centerline) weapons station (usually 6 each 750 pound ör 500 pound bombs). Our combat loads usually bring the aircraft up to its maximum takeoff weight. Hanging down the left side of the g-suit is a fabric-covered rubber hose with a metal fitting on the end that plugs into the aircraft side console. When the aircraft is put into a sharp turn or pulls out of a dive which exert "g forces" on the aircraft, air is pumped through the rubber hose inflating the bladder in the g-suit. The harder the turn, the higher the "g forces." This exerts pressure against the abdomen and the legs as the rubber bladder in the g-suit inflates. Assume the "eject" position: sit up with back straight against the back of the seat, feet flat on the floor, head back against the headrest, rotate the yellow and black "D" handles at the front of the armrests, and squeeze the trigger. Boom! You are out of the aircraft. One caution. In the two seat F-105, the rear seat occupant ejects first, ready or not, when the pilot ejects in order for the back seater to avoid being fried by the pilot seat's rocket exhaust which propels the seat and occupant straight up out of the cockpit!

Mountain Valley Conference Championships: Slalom at Titcomb Mt., Feb. 11-The boys came into the day leading in the combined by one point, but Mt. Abram would prove to be too strong. "It wasn't meant to be. The guys struggled with the course," said Coach John Eliot. Cody Boivin turned in another good performance placing 6th. He was followed by Greg Wheeler in 16th, Anthony Dirago in 20th, and Josh Head in 21st. The girls also struggled with Rachel Wheeler placing 11th and Anna Tyrina placing 17th. "It would have been nice to bring that championship home, but that's skiing for you. Anything can happen," said Eliot. The alpine teams head to Mt. Abram next week for the Class C State Championships.

Mt. Valley Rec Basketball

Laid Back Installers of Mexico are still the top dog in the MVR-BL. LBI, now 8-1, used scoring balance, speed and composure to overtake Bethel Bobcats (6-3)in a defensive intense game, 66-49. The winners got 19 points from Brian Canwell while Owen Jones, 16, Eric Canwell, 14 and Craig Milledge, 10, distributed the wealth. Bethel, who had their chances to pull off the upset. were led by Wade Osgood with 15 points, aided by Sean Caddigan's 12 and Ryan Savage's 11. Mt. Abram, now in sole possession of second place at 7-2, pulled away from a pesky Jay squad (3-6), who hung around for a while, 86-64. Mt. Abram got big games again from Tyler Wentworth with 27 points and Matt Newell with 23. J.T. Taylor helped with 16 and Spenser Glover chipped in with 12. Chris Baxter's 24 weren't enough for Jay to stay close in the second half, while Eric Gemelli had 13 and Zane Armandi had 12. In the final game of the day, J&G Ballers (3-6) had to go to overtime to outlast a upset minded Archies (0-9), 81-74. Archies appeared like they were going to get their first win of the season and outplayed the winners most of the game. J&G was paced by Myles Whitlock with 21, Josh Albee, 17. Jamie Downs, 16 and Joe Gaudreau, 12. Archies got a huge game from Mike Holmquist, 32 points, who was unstoppable at times. However Brett Archibald, 10, was the only other player in double figures. Sunday, Feb 19 has Archies looking for their first win against Mt. Abram at 10 a.m. Bethel and Jay play at 11:30. LBI and J&G finish up at 1 p.m.

"Maine National History Day" program

Once again, the Bethel Historical Society is pleased to be a supporter of the Maine National History Day Program, administered by the Maine State Archives. This year's annual educational competition for all Maine students in grades 6 through 12 will be held on Wednesday, March 28, at the University of Maine at Augusta. Each year students prepare papers, exhibits, documentaries, performances or websites that explore a broad historical theme which, this year, is "Revolution, Reaction, and Reform in History.' The top two winners in each category are eligible to compete at the National competition.

National History Day teaches students research techniques that help them uncover the exciting details of history and allows them to present their knowledge in a category of their choosing. Many students become intrigued with history for a lifetime, and the Bethel Historical Society is proud to invest in these "historians of tomorrow" who may one day be operating a local/regional historical society themselves!

For organizations like the Bethel Historical Society, Maine National History Day is the perfect state-wide place to share historical resources. With the availability of laptops in schools, students can pull research material from the Internet, but local library sources and primary source materials cared for by historical societies are recognized as key to a successful project.

According to a recent evaluation study conducted by the research firm of Rockman et al, students who participate in the National History Day program score or rate higher than their peers who did not participate in the following areas: performance assessments: standardized test scores; academic performance; and interest in current events. Clearly, National History Day teaches critical thinking, writing, and research skills and boosts performance across all subjects; inspires students to achieve more than they ever thought they could; and prepares students for college, career and citizenship.

WMSC Down Home Maine

The Western Mountains Senior College will present the next in its Down Home Maine series on Feb. 28, 4:30 to 6 p.m. at the Mill Hill Inn in Bethel. Leslie Anne Chatfield, MS, Mdiv. will speak on the topic of "Songs in the Key of Life." When you hear a certain song or particular songs, does your memory instantly return you to another place or time in your life? Perhaps a particular song reminds you of a significant person or a group of significant people from another time in your life. This presentation will take a look at how you can use this information in wise and wonderful ways.

Our presenter, Leslie Chatfield, is currently completing her doctoral dissertation focusing on the ways that the songs we remember over the course of our lives offer tools for meaningful reflection. In her characteristically spirited and insightful manner, Leslie will guide her audience to explore what they can learn from these songs. She grounds her material and presentation in her extensive local and national consulting work with a variety of populations, such as elders in spiritual communities, tribal elders, and groups who are engaged in the process of telling the stories of their lives. Leslie, a resident of Bethel, has worked extensively in Maine as a clinical counselor and in the United Church of Christ as a professionally trained Intentional Interim pastor.

The Down Home Maine series features unique and adventurous people from our own community. Programs are open to the public free of charge; donations are accepted to offset Senior College expenses. WMSC offers multisession courses, workshops, outdoor activities, special events and social gatherings to members aged 50 and over. Google Western Mountains Senior College to reach our website.

SR Primetime Democrats Ski Club welcome candidates

Eighteen skiers recently returned home from an exciting week at Aspen/Snowmass, during Primetime's annual western mountains trip.

This winter's limited snowfall affected there as well, but that didn't stop club members from finding fresh powder on the groomers, in the woods and on the expert double black trails at 11,000-plus feet. Everybody had a great time. If you didn't go and feel you missed out, don't dispair, we'll be doing a similar trip again next year.

Those who stayed here had some pretty wonderful conditions as well. Whatever Sunday River has been doing, they're doing an incredible job. I'm guessing someone at SR has found a magic potion for snowmaking and grooming which doesn't require the natural stuff. Most groomed trails are incredible at 9 a.m., really good at noon and still okay toward the end of the day. If you require glades, bumps, or ungroomed surfaces, you need to put in a good word with Mom Nature to help us out. With the outstanding conditions, Primetime is seeing more and more old and new friends

From the Director

Many thanks to the CPS families that attended our first ever Valentine Family Dance. What a wonderful time we all had and what fun to have families come and enjoy the evening together. Special thanks to the MKA staff that arranged a scavenger hunt, valentine crafts, food and door prizes for all to enjoy. I am sure we will do this event again next year!

I also really enjoyed going out to Sunday River Inn to watch the WES cross country skiers this week. They have 39 students participating in that after-school program.

The Tech Wizards program has started at THS with staff from Bryant Pond 4-H as facilitators.

After school vacation, we will be starting our spring play at CPS. "Charlie and the Chocolate Factory" is the play directed by Megan Kelly and Betsy Raymond. Sign up forms have gone home this week. I hope everyone has a wonderful winter vacation here at MKA we will be busy planning for the Summer Adventure Program!
